DDT Is Not Always Harmful to Animals

Absorption or Licking Toxicity Overplayed

When DDT fly sprays first became available for farm buildings and livestock, there was considerable talk about sprayed animals being poisoned from absorption through the skin, or from licking one another, or licking the walls of buildings to which DDT had been applied.

Evidence, however, indicates the danger of toxicity to animals has been overplayed. For instance, in Missouri last summer, a cow drank half a tubful of DDT barn spray while the farmer was tinkering with his sprayer and getting ready to spray his barn. The cow suffered no bad effects.

At West Virginia university last year the dairy department threw caution to the wind and put 32 pounds of 50 per cent DDT powder in 100 gallons of water — then sprayed cows with it. That figures out about 16 per cent for DDT. Most recommendations to date have been under 1 per cent for DDT water sprays on animals. "There were absolutely no harmful results" the head of the dairy department reported. The DDT controlled flies, too. The spray was put on in May, and there were no flies on the cows until the middle of August.

Marine Band To Play At Farmville's Civic Day Program

Farmville is planning for record crowds to attend a gala Civic Day program next Thursday, October 16th. The program is sponsored by the Farmville Business and Professional Women's Club.

There will be a parade featuring decorated floats; a patriotic rally, and a presentation of a citizenship award to that person judged to have performed the most outstanding community service.

The parade will begin at 1 P. M. and proceed to "Longwood," historic estate one mile east of Farmville. Leading the parade will be the famed United States Marine Band, from Quantico. The presence of this large musical organization will lend a festive air to the program.

At "Longwood," a program on citizenship will be opened by the visiting Marine Band, and several other musical groups from nearby schools. R. B. Crawford will pay a tribute to veterans. Mayor W. C. Fitzpatrick will present distinguished guests, including Judge Joel W. Flood, Circuit Court Judge, and Mayor Horace Edwards, of Richmond.

Watkins M. Abbitt, commonwealth attorney of Appomattox County, will make a brief address, and introduce United States Senator A. Willis Robertson, of Lexington, principal speaker.

Other speakers will include Mrs. Nina Horton Avery, vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The evening program will include a minstrel show, concert by the Marine Band and a dance.

Feeding Stimulants To Increase Weight

Utilization of Feed Profits From Dosage

Evidence that tonics and stimulants are to effective for livestock and poultry as they are for humans is contained in research conducted by Washington experiment station.

A year ago the experiment station started a feeding trial with four groups of Hereford heifers (six in each group). One group (serving as a control) was fed a basal grain ration consisting of barley, oats, beet pulp, peas and bran.

The other three groups had the same grain ration, with these additions: Lot 2, Fowler's solution (18 grams arsenic trioxide per 1,000 pounds of grain); lot 3, 300 grams of nux vomica per 1,000 pounds of grain; lot 4, 2 pounds thiouracil per 1,000 pounds of grain.

During the first two weeks of feeding, the heifers getting nux vomica (lot 3) gained 3.8 pounds per head daily, those getting Fowler's solution, 2.6 pounds; those getting thiouracil, 2.4 pounds; control animals, only .6 pounds. During the following two-week period, nux vomica heifers gained 4.1 pounds; Fowler's solution, 3.1; thiouracil, 3; control, 3.

As the weeks went by, the average daily gains for all groups came closer together. Here are the rates of gain for the four groups at the end of 14 weeks: Controls (no stimulant), 2.35 pounds; Fowler's solution, 2.6 pounds; nux vomica, 2.7 pounds; thiouracil, 2.5 pounds.

The cost of feed per pound of weight gain was lowest in the nux vomica group. That is, they made better use of feed than the others.

Kill Poison Ivy by Spraying With Ammate

To kill poison ivy plants use ammate or 2,4-D. When ammate is used, dissolve a pound in a gallon of water and spray until the plants are dripping wet. Keep spray away from desirable plants. If one application is not sufficient and the plants reappear, a second spraying should kill the ivy. When using 2,4-D, follow the manufacturer's instructions on the package as to strength.

Ribbentrop gold hoard sought.

want one??? SURE YOU DO! . . . Millions of couples would jump at the chance . . . But there's one catch . . . All these homes were burned to the ground. Yes, last year . . . fire destroyed over 31,000,000 acres of America's forests and woodlands. It also killed billions of little trees . . . tomorrow's timber . . . and enough big trees to build 215,000 five-room homes.

Fire also attacks an American home every two minutes . . . night and day. This means that over 250,000 homes are damaged by fire each year, because someone became careless and didn't observe those simple little rules to prevent fires.

SO REMEMBER THESE RULES . . .

In the Forest . . .

CRUSH out your cigarette, your cigar, your pipe ashes.

BREAK your matches in two.

DROWN your campfires then stir and drown again.

KEEP matches away from small children.

REPLACE frayed electric cords and repair defective electrical equipment.

KEEP a screen in front of your fireplace and watch the fire.

KEEP stoves, furnaces and smoke-pipes in good repair.

KEEP an approved fire extinguisher to "knock-out" small fires.

USE only metal barrels for ashes and rubbish.

In the Home . . .

HAVE your smoke before you go to bed.

USE only fire-safe roofing.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Tell You're Getting Old

Doc Walters gave me this formula: It's a sure-fire sign you're getting old when you resent other people having a good time.

And the Doc means it hasn't much to do with age. There are old folks in our town who get a big kick out of seeing other people enjoy themselves—seem to keep them young in spirit, with a twinkle in their eyes! ...

And there are some others who resent the young folks going fishing; who feel that community games and dances are just a waste of time; or who criticize temperate people for enjoying a mellow glass of beer with friends.

They're often well-intentioned folks, too. But from where I sit, the minute we criticize our neighbors for enjoying wholesome pleasures —like a game of horseshoes, a glass of beer, or an afternoon fishing—it's a sure sign we're growing old (in spirit anyway) no matter what our age is.
